About the presenter:

Dr. Peter E. Nathan is University of Iowa Foundation Distinguished Professor of Psychology and Public Health emeritus. He has written extensively about the diagnostic and statistical manuals (DSMs); alcoholism assessment, diagnosis, and treatment; and empirically supported treatments. Nathan served as provost and a faculty member in psychology and public health at the University of Iowa; as senior program officer for the MacArthur Foundation; and as Henry and Anna Starr Professor of Psychology, director of clinical training, and director of the Center of Alcohol Studies at Rutgers University.