

References and Other Resources

This document contains:

- A list of References for the Clinical Pages of the National ATTC Network web site.
- A beginning list of books beyond these references that might be useful to people who want more information on veterans, post-deployment stress effects, the neuroscience of stress and trauma, or the treatment of trauma
- A few web-based resources that offer more information on these subjects

Please also see the pages in this web site (www.attcnetwork.org/learn/topics/veterans) that list resources for veterans and families.
